

Empowering voices

Date: _____

Read the text and answer the questions.

Advocacy at school is a potent force, giving students a voice and fostering positive change. It empowers individuals to speak up for their needs and concerns, creating a supportive environment for all.

One inspiring real-life example comes from a small school where a group of students advocated for the establishment of a communal eating space during breaks.

Recognizing the importance of social interaction and nourishment, these students successfully convinced school authorities to allocate a designated area for students to eat together. The impact was immediate – fostering a sense of community, improving overall well-being, and creating a welcoming environment.

Advocacy in schools is essential as it empowers students to voice their needs and shape their educational environment. It teaches them valuable life skills such as communication, collaboration, and problem-solving.

By advocating for positive changes, students not only improve their own experiences but contribute to the collective well-being of the entire school community.

1. What is the role of advocacy in schools, according to the text?

---

---

2. Can you provide a specific example of advocacy in a school mentioned in the text?

---

---

3. What skills does advocacy in schools teach students, as mentioned in the text?

---

---

4. What positive changes did the students in the real-life example advocate for, and how did it impact the school environment?

---

---

Empowering voices

Date: _____

Read the text and answer the questions.

Advocacy at school is a potent force, giving students a voice and fostering positive change. It empowers individuals to speak up for their needs and concerns, creating a supportive environment for all.

One inspiring real-life example comes from a small school where a group of students advocated for the establishment of a communal eating space during breaks.

Recognizing the importance of social interaction and nourishment, these students successfully convinced school authorities to allocate a designated area for students to eat together. The impact was immediate – fostering a sense of community, improving overall well-being, and creating a welcoming environment.

Advocacy in schools is essential as it empowers students to voice their needs and shape their educational environment. It teaches them valuable life skills such as communication, collaboration, and problem-solving.

By advocating for positive changes, students not only improve their own experiences but contribute to the collective well-being of the entire school community.

1. What is the role of advocacy in schools, according to the text?

---

---

2. Can you provide a specific example of advocacy in a school mentioned in the text?

---

---

3. What skills does advocacy in schools teach students, as mentioned in the text?

---

---

4. What positive changes did the students in the real-life example advocate for, and how did it impact the school environment?

---

---